

Policy on Conflict Minerals

In August 2012 the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) issued final rules on “conflict minerals” also known as 3TG (Tantalum, Tungsten, Tin, Gold) required by s1502 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (“Act”). Many companies are now addressing the question of whether their products contain conflict minerals from the Democratic Republic of Congo and adjoining countries named in the Act (together referred to as “DRC”).

Iracroft Ltd strives for high standards in Corporate Social Responsibility and to support our customers and suppliers in their compliance with the Act and their requirements on conflict minerals as part of this objective.

We will work towards ensuring, to the best of our knowledge, that our products and processes do not contain or use conflict minerals originating from DRC. We will expect our suppliers to use reputable sources for any products containing conflict minerals and to co-operate with us in any enquiries concerning the source of 3TG.
